

ADJECTIVES

Adjectives are words used to describe or modify nouns (people, places, things, or ideas). There are different types of adjectives, including Common Adjectives and Demonstrative Adjectives.

1. Common Adjectives:

- These adjectives provide general information about a noun.
- They don't point to specific things but give a broader description.
- Examples: tall, blue, delicious, fast.

2. Demonstrative Adjectives:

- These adjectives are used to point out or identify specific nouns.
- They indicate whether the noun is near or far in relation to the speaker.
- Examples: this, that, these, those.

Here's a summary chart:

Adjective Type	Function	Examples
Common Adjectives	General Description	tall, blue, delicious
Demonstrative Adjectives	Specific Identification	this, that, these, those
